On behalf of the American College of Surgeons (ACS) Foundation, thank you!

As your Foundation looks back over fiscal year 2020, we are pleased to report that during the public health crisis caused by the COVID-19 pandemic, the ACS Foundation Board and staff have remained focused on supporting the work of the College and its Fellows. The College led the national surgical response to the pandemic, and with the involvement of the Fellows, provided a virtual Clinical Congress at no charge. Your gifts have continued to support the American College of Surgeons in tangible ways, which preserve the ideals and principles of the most effective voice for surgery. This annual report celebrates you and the impact your contributions have had on ACS programs, initiatives, and innovations. Every dollar you give is used to support the ACS programs that you have chosen.

For example, gifts to Greatest Needs have funded academic awards that support surgeons seeking specialized knowledge, surgical volunteerism through Operation Giving Back, lifelong learning for surgeons at all stages of their careers, and educational resources that empower patients both before and after their surgical procedures. Many other initiatives that fulfill our mission of optimal patient care, such as the ACS Military Health System Strategic Partnership, are active today in large part because of your philanthropy.

The impact of your generosity cannot be overstated. By supporting the College through philanthropy, you are inspiring the next generation of surgeons and helping save lives every day.

Thank you again for your support of the American College of Surgeons and for being part of this exceptional organization.

Sincerely,

E. Christopher Ellison, MD, FACS
Chair, ACS Foundation

“Out of difficulties grow miracles.”

LETTER
from David B. Hoyt, MD, FACS

ACS has faced many challenges since its founding in 1913 to promote the highest standards of surgical and patient care. In 1918, the Spanish flu struck, killing 675,000 Americans and up to 50 million people worldwide.

Today, the College is leading the fight against the COVID-19 pandemic. Once again, the College has assumed a global leadership role to inform surgeons and the medical community and fight for higher quality standards for patients.

The College continues to follow its core guiding principles to provide strong leadership and guidance during the COVID-19 pandemic through the creation of a virtual and free Clinical Congress (with more than 32,000 international registrants) and the distribution of the Bulletin: ACS COVID-19 Updates newsletter to meet the global needs of all surgeons in this time of crisis.

Your continuing support during these challenging times has helped the College provide the leadership to the global medical community necessary to reduce the ravaging effects of this deadly disease. Every time you give, you are affirming the importance of the role surgeons play in conquering this pandemic.

From the College’s humble beginning in 1913, our Fellows have responded to the request for charitable support with their donations, thereby establishing many of the programs and initiatives that we enjoy and value. These varied and impactful offerings of the ACS are not possible without the continued charitable support of the Fellowship, since revenue from dues and contributions from industry are insufficient to guarantee the future and proliferation of the College’s many nonrevenue programs.

Your philanthropic support directly supports the College’s mission and the future of surgery by underwriting scholarships, multiyear research fellowships, programs such as Operation Giving Back, patient education, lifelong learning, trauma education, and multiple initiatives that do not generate self-sustaining revenue.

Thank you for your continuing generosity. You truly show your love of your profession and the patients you serve by serving as a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons.

Best,

David B. Hoyt, MD, FACS

FACULTY RESEARCH FELLOWS
2020–2022

Four Faculty Research Fellowships have been awarded by the College for 2020-2022. The fellowships are offered to encourage young academic surgeon-scientists to establish their own laboratories, and carry awards of $40,000 for each of two years, beginning July 1, 2020. These fellowships are supported by the Scholarship Endowment Fund of the College.

RECIPIENTS

Christina Minami, MD | Brigham and Women’s Hospital
Research project title: “Evaluation of a Low-Value Care Practice in Older Breast Cancer Patients with Early-Stage Disease: Physician-Level Variation in and Attitudes toward Axillary Evaluation”

Jashodeep Datta, MD | University of Miami – Dewitt Daughtry Department of Surgery
Research project title: “Overcoming Tumor-Intrinsic Mechanisms of Immune Exclusion Defined by Ras-P53 Cooperative Signaling in Pancreatic Adenocarcinoma”

Anne Madeleine Stey, MD | Northwestern Memorial Hospital
Research project title: “Characterizing Geographic Networks in Interfacility Trauma Transfers”

Daniel L. Faden, MD | Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary
Research project title: “Blood-Based Monitoring of Treatment Resistance in Head and Neck Cancer”

The Scholarship Endowment Fund was established to provide income for scholarships and fellowships awarded by the ACS Board of Regents. Direct contributions to support the Scholarship Endowment Fund are welcome. Fellows who would like to make tax-deductible gifts to fund these vital programs are encouraged to contact the ACS Foundation at 312-202-5338.
RESIDENT RESEARCH SCHOLARS
2020–2022

Six Resident Research Scholarships have been awarded by the College for 2020–2022. The scholarships are offered to encourage residents to pursue careers in academic surgery, and carry awards of $30,000 for each of two years, beginning July 1, 2020. These scholarships are supported by the Scholarship Endowment Fund of the College.

RECIPIENTS

Julian Daza, MD | University of Toronto
Research project title: “Frailty in Older Adults who Undergo Major Noncardiac Surgery: A Multicenter Prospective Cohort Study”

Connie Shao, MD | The University of Alabama Medical Center

Maryam Mohammad, MD | University of Pittsburgh
Research project title: “Metformin to Improve Immune Defects Associated with Aging”

Tara Talaie, MD | Columbia University
Research project title: “The Impact of Hybrid Thymi and Porcine Mixed Chimerism on Tolerance, Homeostasis, and Function of T Cells in a Humanized Mouse Model”

Xavier Baldwin, MD | The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill School of Medicine
Research project title: “Inhibition of T-Regulatory Cells as a Novel Component of Immunotherapy in Triple-Negative Breast Cancer”

The Scholarship Endowment Fund was established to provide income to fund scholarships and fellowships awarded by the Board of Regents. Direct contributions to support the Scholarship Endowment Fund are welcome. Fellows wishing to make tax-deductible gifts to fund these vital programs are encouraged to contact the ACS Foundation at 312-202-5338.
WHY I SUPPORT THE AMERICAN COLLEGE OF SURGEONS

ACS Regent Ken Sharp, MD, FACS, reached out to a first-time donor to thank her for her generous gift and to find out why she supports the College. Here is her response.

As executor of my father’s “estate,” I was able to establish a donor-advised fund that will allow me to support educational activities that he would have valued. The ACS is one of those.

My father, who was not a surgeon but was an amazing self-taught learner of many things, was adamant when I became a surgeon that I should become a Fellow of the ACS. I never knew why except that someone must have told him that this was very important.

The year that I was inducted the meeting was in San Francisco, and my father—who absolutely hated flying—flew from Illinois to be at the ceremony. I will never forget that. And Dad was right: although I’m a plastic surgeon, I have always felt truly connected to ACS.

As a family, we always valued education and learning by doing. When I thought I wanted to be a doctor/pathologist, my father said I’d better find out what that meant, so as a high school student I went to a local hospital and worked in the lab as a phlebotomist.

I learned that I did not want to be a pathologist, but this set me up for multiple jobs in the future, including working for a plastic surgeon who was starting up a practice in that small town. From that experience I determined that I was going to be a plastic surgeon and change people’s lives through reconstruction.

I plan to make more contributions to the College in the future, but it was important to me that I do this initial donation to mark the one-year anniversary of my father’s passing.
