

Rachel Kelz, MD, MSCE, MBA, FACS | University of Pennsylvania

Dr. Kelz is the William Maul Measey Professor of Surgery at the University of Pennsylvania. She is the Executive Vice Chair and Director of the Center for Surgery and Health Economics in the Department of Surgery. Dr. Kelz is a Diplomate of the American Board of Surgery (c.2005, rc.2015) with an active endocrine surgery practice and formal training in health services research. Her research interests include surgical outcomes, education and the eradication of disparities using observational study designs, clinical trials and advanced analytics. Dr. Kelz is funded by the National Institute on Aging, the National Institute on Minority Health and Health Disparities and the Leonard Davis Institute. Dr. Kelz received her bachelor's degree in mathematics at Union College in Schenectady, NY, her medical degree from the School of Medicine at Yale University in New Haven, CT, her master's in clinical Epidemiology and Biostatistics at the University of Pennsylvania and an executive Masters in Business Administration at the Wharton School at the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia, PA.