The ACS is a non-profit organization whose mission is dedicated to improving the care of the surgical patient and safeguarding standards of care in an optimal and ethical practice environment. To learn more about the ACS, visit our website: About ACS | ACS

The goal of this course is to help surgery residents develop some of the essential nonclinical skills that will be critical to their success as senior-level residents and practicing surgeons. The course faculty are nationally renowned clinical and educational professionals who will provide an interactive learning environment. Residents will learn to lead a team more effectively, resolve conflict, be better teachers, give constructive feedback, and apply these skills during and after residency. The number of participants is limited to allow ample interaction with faculty and to facilitate networking with other attendees. This course is targeted for mid- to senior-level residents, but all trainees who are currently in a surgical residency program are welcome to attend.

Eligibility to Exhibit

The meeting is intended for companies related to the profession, including those involved in providing education, supplies, and services to the medical profession, pharmaceuticals, instrumentation, practice management, publications, computer software, and so on. With a limited number of exhibitors permitted, the committee reserves the right to deny exhibitors after the limit is reached.

All products must be directly related to the practice of surgery or medicine and approved by the ACS in their sole and absolute discretion. Exhibitors shall not exhibit products or services other than those described in the application and approved by ACS. A “investigational device or drug” product must be clearly marked as such. Exhibitors must ensure that with respect to all such devices or drugs, only permissible preapproved dissemination of scientific and educational information is provided at the exhibit, and that appropriate disclosure and cautionary notices are included with the devices or drugs. An exhibitor shall not in any manner directly or indirectly imply that the ACS’s endorsement or approval of the exhibitor’s product or service has been given merely because the ACS approved such product or service for display as an exhibit. Applications deemed ineligible will be returned with full payment.
