Students are welcome to attend all or selected portions of the three-day program.
Medical students attending the Medical Student Program are invited to attend the Medical Student Program Poster Session on Sunday, October 16, during which 48 students will present their research. Resident and surgeon volunteers will critique these presentations, and winners will be recognized during Tuesday’s session on October 18.

“I enjoyed listening to presentations from professionals who are leaders in their fields.”
Clinical Congress 2016

The American College of Surgeons Clinical Congress is a five-day meeting held each year in October, featuring hundreds of hours of educational sessions and activities for general and specialty surgeons. The meeting is attended by approximately 8,000 surgeons and 15,000 participants overall. In addition to participating in the Medical Student Program, students are invited to attend Clinical Congress activities such as the Named Lectures, panel sessions, Scientific Paper Sessions, Scientific Forum, video-based education sessions, Scientific Poster Presentations, and technical exhibits. In addition to clinical topics in every discipline, session titles of special interest include:

- Spectacular Cases from Residents
- Surgical Jeopardy
- Professional Development of Surgical Trainees
- Strategies for the Resident and Surgeon Facing Burnout
- Mythbusters: Deconstructing the Surgery Clerkship
- Logistics and Wellness for Pregnant Surgeons
