ABOUT THE AMERICAN COLLEGE OF SURGEONS

The American College of Surgeons (ACS) is dedicated to improving the care of the surgical patient and safeguarding standards of care in an optimal and ethical practice environment. The ACS is the largest organization of surgeons in the world. It is the single strongest voice for surgeons in all specialties and, since its founding in 1913 by surgeons from the United States and Canada, has been at the forefront of providing quality care for surgical patients and supporting surgeons wherever they practice. The ACS works on behalf of its members and their patients by:

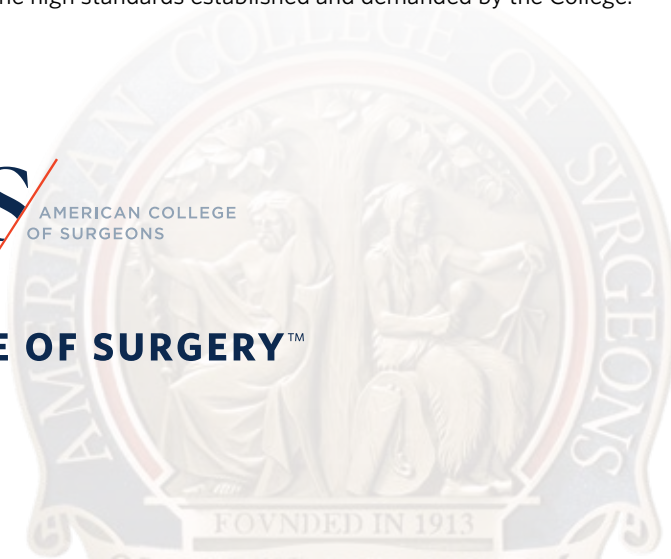

- Developing innovative education and training programs to support practicing surgeons, surgery residents, and members of surgical teams
- Improving care for surgical patients through ACS Quality Programs
- Fostering the next generation of promising surgeons through scholarships and fellowships
- Conducting research to provide innovative best practices in patient care
- Giving surgeons from across the US and around the globe opportunities for networking
- Promoting the image of the surgical profession, today and tomorrow

FACS Designation

The FACS designation (Fellow, American College of Surgeons) after a surgeon's name means that the surgeon's education and training, professional qualifications, surgical competence, and ethical conduct have undergone a rigorous evaluation and have been found to be consistent with the high standards established and demanded by the College.

THE HOUSE OF SURGERY™

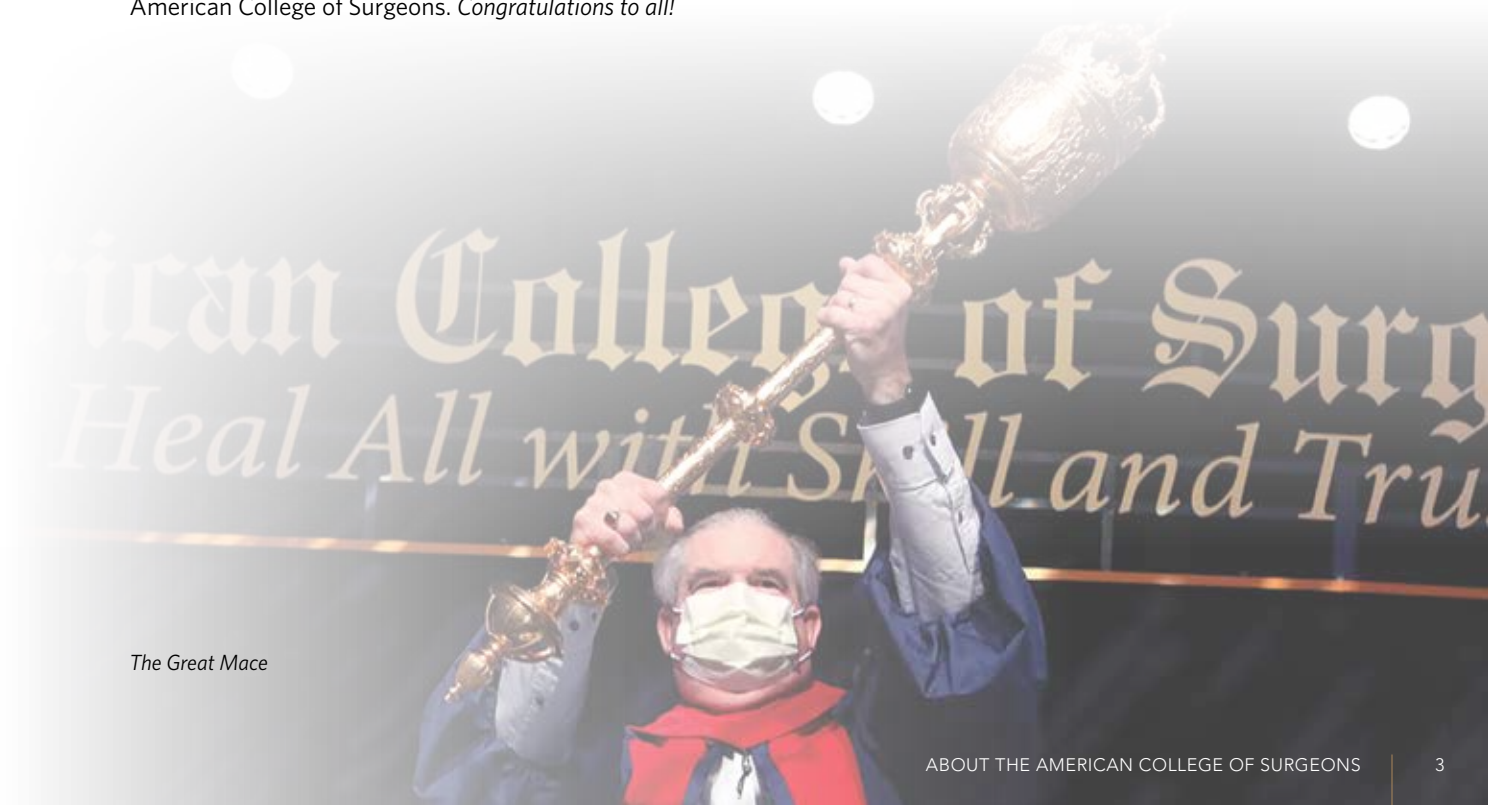

Great Mace

Presented as a gift of goodwill from 61 British surgeons in 1920 who worked alongside American surgeons in World War I, the Great Mace debuted at the 1920 ACS Annual Meeting in Montreal. The Great Mace is a symbol of fellowship, and its presentation during the procession at the Convocation Ceremony of the ACS Clinical Congress has been a tradition for more than 100 years.

Convocation

The first Convocation Ceremony was held on November 13, 1913, at the Congress Hotel in Chicago, IL. The inaugural class was composed of 1,059 surgeons from the US and Canada. The 2023 class has 1,674 initiates from the US, Canada, and 72 other countries.

The ACS Board of Regents is honored to confer Fellowship on the 2023 Initiates and welcomes them to the American College of Surgeons. Congratulations to all!

Closing Remarks

50-YEAR AND 25-YEAR INITIATE CLASSES

With the engagement and support of more than 87,000 surgeons, residents, medical students, and members of the surgical team around the globe, the College wishes to recognize the initiate classes from 1973 and 1998.

We congratulate these Fellows on their milestone anniversaries, and we thank them for their dedication to the College, their contributions to surgery, and their commitment to the ACS motto "To Heal All With Skill and Trust."

"Being a Fellow of the College gave me the opportunity to enhance my ability to deliver optimal clinical care to my patients while in active practice, in retirement, and to continue to serve our profession as an active College volunteer."

Melvin I. Freeman, MD, FACS
Ophthalmic Surgeon, Yarrow Point, Washington
50-year FACS

"In these 25 years as a FACS and an orthopaedic and trauma surgeon, I have learned a lot from the College, especially from colleagues located around the world and the Clinical Congress, which in turn benefited my patients. I am grateful."

Jagdish Kumar, MB BS, FACS
Orthopaedic and Trauma Surgeon, Birmingham, United Kingdom
25-Year FACS

HONORARY FELLOWSHIPS

Conferral of Honorary Fellowship in the American College of Surgeons began in 1913 upon the ACS founding. Individuals selected for Honorary Fellowship generally practice outside of the United States, possess an international reputation in the field of surgery or medicine, and have provided distinguished humanitarian service in the field of medical science. The ACS has more than 160 Honorary Fellows listed on its website. This year, seven new prominent surgeons will be bestowed Honorary Fellowship.

Luigi Bonavina, MD, FACS | Milan, Italy

Surgical Specialty: General Surgery

Sponsored by: Professor Antonio DiCataldo, MD, FACS(Hon)

Luigi Bonavina, MD, FACS, is a full professor of surgery at the University of Milan and the director of the Department of General and Foregut Surgery at IRCCS Policlinico San Donato in Milan, Italy. He also is the director of the Foregut Research Center and the Institutional Multidisciplinary Surgical Oncology Board at Policlinico San Donato.

Dr. Bonavina completed his general and thoracic surgical training at the University of Padua Medical School. Following this, he completed a postdoctoral research fellowship at The University of Chicago and Creighton University in Omaha, Nebraska, studying esophageal pathophysiology and reconstructive surgery of the foregut.

His practice in general surgery and surgical oncology is focused on advancing the surgical treatment of diseases of the esophagus. This has included more than 2,000 major surgical procedures on the esophagus via minimally invasive thoracoscopic and laparoscopic surgery and transoral surgery, including esophagectomies for cancer and caustic ingestion, funduplications and magnetic sphincter augmentations for reflux disease, Heller myotomies for motility disorders, and septum divisions for Zenker diverticulum.

Through his ongoing research on the foregut, he has authored more than 450 peer-reviewed research articles and more than 50 book chapters. He also serves as an associate editor (Upper GI) for Updates in Surgery, the official journal of the Italian Society of Surgery, and as a member of the editorial board of the World Journal of Emergency Surgery.

Dr. Bonavina has been a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons since 1995 and is a member of many other scientific societies, including the Académie National de Chirurgie (Paris, France), American Foregut Society, European Surgical Association, International Society for Diseases of the Esophagus, Italian Society of Surgery, Society for Surgery of the Alimentary Tract, and World Society of Emergency Surgery. Dr. Bonavina is an honorary member of the Association of Laparoscopic Surgeons of Great Britain & Ireland, consultant for the Italian Association for Medical Oncology, and current president of the European Foregut Society.

Christopher R. Chapple, BSc, MBBS, MD, FRCS(Urol), FEBU, FCSHK(Hon)
Fulwood, Sheffield, United Kingdom

Surgical Specialty: Urology

Sponsored by: Roger Dmochowski, MD, MMHC, FACS

Christopher Chapple, BSc, MBBS, MD, FRCS(Urol), FEBU, FCSHK(Hon), is a reconstructive urologist in the Royal Hallamshire Hospital at the Sheffield National Trust Hospital in Sheffield, United Kingdom.

Prof. Chapple earned a bachelor of science in human morphology and evolution and medical bachelor and bachelor of surgery at the University College of London, followed by a medical degree from the Middlesex Hospital in London and a doctorate in medicine from the University of London. In addition, he completed a fellowship at the Royal College of Surgeons in England.

Following his training, Prof. Chapple established a reconstructive urological practice at Sheffield National Trust Hospital, where he has focused on functional reconstruction of the urinary tract and urogynecological care for patients referred locally, regionally, and nationally. He also has completed investigations into the effects of neurological disease on the lower urinary tract as well as the importance of novel receptors and mechanisms of action (e.g., the purinergic system). In the course of this work, he has authored more than 750 peer-reviewed articles.

Prof. Chapple is the secretary general of the European Association of Urology, an honorary professor of surgery at the University of Sheffield, and a visiting professor of urology at Sheffield Hallam University. He also is a fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons (Urology) Intercollegiate Board, a fellow of the European Board of Urology, and a member of the American Association of Genitourinary Surgeons.

He has received doctoris honoris causa degrees from Semmelweis University in Budapest, Hungary, and the University of Medicine and Pharmacy Carol Davila in Bucharest, Romania. In 2015, he received a lifetime achievement award from the Society for Urodynamics, Female Urology, and Urogenital Reconstruction. In addition, in 2020, he was the first person to be inducted into the International Continence Society Hall of Fame.

Nicola Fearnhead, BM BCh, FRCS, DM, FASCRS | Cambridge, United Kingdom

Surgical Specialty: Colorectal Surgery

Sponsored by: Steven D. Wexner, MD, PhD(Hon), FACS, FRCSEng, FRCSEd, FRCSI(Hon), FRCSEd

Nicola Fearnhead, BM BCh, FRCS, DM, FASCRS, is a consultant colorectal surgeon at Cambridge University Hospitals Foundation National Health Services Trust and an associate lecturer at the University of Cambridge in the UK.

Dr. Fearnhead studied medicine at Pembroke College, Cambridge, and then at Merton College, Oxford, as a Rhodes Scholar from Zimbabwe. Her surgical training in the UK initially was undertaken in Bristol and later completed in Oxford with Professor Neil Mortensen; it also included a 2-year research fellowship in Professor Sir Walter Bodmer's Genetics Laboratory. Her international fellowship in advanced colorectal surgery at the Cleveland Clinic in 2005 was supervised by Victor Fazio, MBBS, FACS. She was appointed to Addenbrooke's Hospital as a consultant colorectal surgeon in 2006. She has had continuous funding for research activities since 2009.

She is a leader in patient-reported outcomes using Delphi analyses and was awarded the 2017 Patient Champion Award for this work. Dr. Fearnhead's efforts to secure optimal outcomes for patients also is reflected in her research, which has focused in part on the integration of patients into clinical research, including through seeking a broad spectrum of patient views, showing others how to access patient voices, and emphasizing the need to act on patients' input.

In her research group, she has established eight new principal investigators and five associate principal investigators in the last 5 years. Throughout her career, she has published 158 peer-reviewed articles and numerous book chapters and guidelines, delivered more than 150 national lectures and 25 international lectures, and trained more than 30 fellows in colorectal surgery.

Dr. Fearnhead is a past president of the Association of Coloproctology of Great Britain and Ireland. She is a member of the Royal College of Medicine, European Society of Coloproctology, and Arthur Hurst Club (British Society of Gastroenterology). She is a fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons of Edinburgh by election in 2020. She was awarded an honorary fellowship by the American Society of Colon and Rectum Surgery in 2020, and honorary membership of the Colorectal Surgical Society of Australia and New Zealand in 2022.

Her current honorary positions include clinical lead of the National Bowel Cancer Audit, trustee of the Bowel Research UK charity, and elected council member of the Royal College of Surgeons of England.

United Kingdom

Anna Martling, MD, PhD | Stockholm, Sweden

Surgical Specialty: Colorectal Surgery

Sponsored by: Steven D. Wexner, MD, PhD(Hon), FACS, FRCSEng, FRCSEd, FRCSI(Hon), FRCSGlas

Anna Martling, MD, PhD, of Stockholm, Sweden, is a senior consultant surgeon on the cancer team in the Division of Coloproctology at Karolinska University Hospital, a professor of surgery at Karolinska Institutet, and the dean of Karolinska Institutet North.

She completed her medical degree as well as a doctorate focused on rectal cancer at Karolinska Institutet before becoming a board-certified surgeon. In addition to continuous clinical practice treating colorectal cancer, she has headed a research group since 2008 with a special focus on clinical, translational, and epidemiological studies on colorectal cancer. Through this group, Dr. Martling has served as a principal investigator for six randomized controlled trials and led many studies of large cohorts of patients with colorectal malignant conditions. Overall, her work has generated insights into predictive and prognostic biomarkers, aspirin use, radiotherapy, the timing of surgery, and the development of new surgical techniques in colorectal cancer surgery, and she has authored 133 peer-reviewed articles. For this work, Dr. Martling has received the Swedish Surgical Society's Great Research Prize (2013), Karolinska Institutet's 2019 Axel Hirsch Prize, and the 2021 Cancer Researcher of the Year from the Swedish Cancer Society, as well as other accolades.

Dr. Martling has held many positions of trust. Among these are an honorary fellowship from the American Society of Colon and Rectal Surgeons, Royal College of Surgeons of England, and membership in the International Surgical Group. She also has served as the chairperson of the Program/Scientific Committee of the European Society of Coloproctology and is on the board of the British Journal of Surgery. In addition, she has been an invited speaker at more than 130 national and international scientific meetings.

Deborah McNamara, MB(Hons), FRCSI, MD, FRCSI(Gen) | Dublin, Ireland

Surgical Specialty: General/Colorectal Surgery

Sponsored by: Hilary A. Sanfey, MB, BCh, MHPE, FACS, FRCSI, FRCSEd(Hon), and Barbara Lee Bass, MD, FACS

Prof. Deborah McNamara, MB(Hons), FRCSI, MD, FRCSI(Gen), is a consultant general and colorectal surgeon at Beaumont Hospital in Dublin, Ireland, co-lead of the National Clinical Program for Surgery, and clinical professor in surgery at the Royal College of Surgeons of Ireland (RCSI), where she also currently serves as vice-president.

Prof. McNamara earned her medical degree at the Trinity College Dublin, School of Medicine with honors and became a fellow of the RCSI 4 years after completing her degree. She received a doctorate from Trinity College Dublin for her thesis on angiogenesis and then completed fellowship training in coloproctology at Hôpital Saint Antoine, Paris, where she specialized in the operative management of rectal cancer. Prof. McNamara also holds qualifications in quality improvement and leadership (Royal College of Physicians of Ireland) and implementation science (Trinity College Dublin).

During her training, Prof. McNamara received the Patey Prize of the Surgical Research Society, the Meath Hospital Senior Clinical Medal in Medicine and Surgery, the Arthur Ball Prize in Surgery, and the De Renzy Centenary Prize. In addition, she delivered the 2005 Millin Lecture, a prestigious award recognizing excellence in original surgical research.

Following her appointment as a consultant general and colorectal surgeon at Beaumont Hospital in 2003, she was appointed clinical director for surgery at Beaumont Hospital, where she has led the development of Beaumont's colorectal cancer biobank and contributed to research collaborations between Beaumont clinicians and RCSI-affiliated scientists. Among her many roles in leadership and teaching, she has guided the Rectal Cancer Lead Clinician Group of the Health Service Executive National Cancer Control Program.

Prof. McNamara is the first woman to be appointed a consultant colorectal surgeon in Ireland and has participated in efforts to advance gender equity in the surgical profession, including as chair of the RCSI Short-Life Working Group on Gender Diversity in Surgery, which generated a groundbreaking report that inspired changes in Ireland's surgical environment. Her recent honors have included the 2019 Olga Jonasson Distinguished Member Award from the Association of Women Surgeons.

Ireland

Masaki Mori, MD, PhD, FACS | Isehara, Japan

Surgical Specialty: General Surgery/Surgical Oncology

Sponsored by: E. Christopher Ellison, MD, FACS, and Timothy J. Eberlein, MD, FACS

Masaki Mori, MD, PhD, FACS, the vice-president of Tokai University and dean of Tokai University School of Medicine in Tokyo, Japan, is an internationally recognized leader in cancer stem-cell research in gastrointestinal cancers.

Prof. Mori received his medical degree and a doctorate in medical science from Kyushu University in Fukuoka, Japan. He completed his residency in Japan, as well as a research fellowship at the New England Deaconess Hospital and Dana-Farber Cancer Institute in Boston, Massachusetts.

Prof. Mori's research interests include gastrointestinal surgery, cancer surgery, and translational research. His many achievements include authorship on more than 1,400 peer-reviewed articles. His published insights include his identification of CD13 as the world's first cancer stem-cell marker for liver cancer and the creation of a drug delivery system for inhibitors of CD13. In addition, his accomplishments include the discovery of the antitumor effects of microRNAs, the potential application of microRNA to inhibit tumor growth, and the quantitative analysis of microRNA methylation by mass spectroscopy as a means of cancer diagnosis.

A leader in both cancer and surgery, Prof. Mori serves as editor-in-chief of Annals of Gastroenterological Surgery and associate editor of Cancer Science. He participates in many national and international organizations, including serving as the vice-president of the Japanese Medical Science Foundation and Japanese Association of Medical Sciences.

Prof. Mori became a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons in 1995. He has been the recipient of numerous prestigious awards, including the Murakami Memorial Award, Innovative Research Award from the Kobayashi Foundation for Cancer Research, Medical Award of the Japan Medical Association, Princess Takamatsu Cancer Research Fund Prize, Osaka University Presidential Award, and a special prize from the Sagawa Foundation for Cancer Research. For his contributions to academic development, he was awarded the Medal of Honor by the Emperor of Japan in 2020.

Richard David Rosin, MS, MB BS, FRCS(Eng), FRCS(Ed), FICS, FCCS, DHMSA
Cave Hill, St. Michael, Barbados

Surgical Specialty: General Surgery/Surgical Oncology

Sponsored by: Gerald M. Fried, MD, CM, FRCS(C), FACS, FCAHS

Richard David Rosin, MS, MB BS, FRCS(Eng), FRCS(Ed), FICS, FCCS, DHMSA, known as David, is a professor of surgery and honor senior lecturer at the University of the West Indies in Cavehill, Barbados, where he leads the Department of Surgery.

After his upbringing in Zimbabwe (then known as Rhodesia), Dr. Rosin earned his medical degree at Westminster Hospital School of Medicine at the University of London, in the United Kingdom. There, he was awarded the Class Prize in Medicine, Forensic Medicine Prize, and Arthur Evans Memorial Prize in Surgery. In addition, he received the Rogers Prize, which is awarded to the top trainee surgeon at the University of London.

Dr. Rosin became a senior consultant surgeon at St. Mary's Hospital and the Imperial School of Medicine in London, specializing in upper gastrointestinal and minimal access surgery and surgical oncology. His innovations as a clinician include the development of the first totally implantable infusion pumps for chemotherapy of the liver and the introduction of laparoscopic surgery, including performing the first laparoscopic cholecystectomy in England. In recognition of his career success, he was made a fellow of both the Royal College of Surgeons of England and the Royal College of Surgeons of Edinburgh, as well as a Hunterian Professor of the Royal College of Surgeons of England, which is the most prestigious award in surgery in the UK. While a senior consultant surgeon, he also served as the senior vice-president of the Royal College of Surgeons of England.

In the past 3 years, he has completed widely recognized research on genomic approaches to cancer screening.

In addition to his work in the United Kingdom and Barbados, he periodically returned to his native country, Zimbabwe, to provide care to patients with hernia. He has additionally served as a surgeon on a surgical mission trip to Ecuador.

Dr. Rosin has received seven honorary surgical fellowships and delivered numerous named lectures. He is a member of many organizations, including the Surgical Research Society, European Society of Surgical Oncology, and the Royal Society of Medicine. In Barbados, he is a member of the Caribbean College of Surgeons and a founder and past president of the Caribbean Society of Endoscopic Surgery. He is currently editor-in-chief or emeritus editor-in-chief of four international surgical journals, and he has been the president of seven organizations and is currently president of the Barbados Cancer Society.

OWEN H. WANGENSTEEN SCIENTIFIC FORUM AWARD

The American College of Surgeons Scientific Forum Committee has dedicated the Owen H. Wangenstein Scientific Forum to an individual who best exemplifies the qualities of a successful academic surgeon. Awardees have advanced academic surgery as expert clinicians, accomplished researchers, and outstanding educators and mentors. This year, we are honored to dedicate the Forum to Monica M. Bertagnolli, MD, FACS.

Monica M. Bertagnolli, MD, FACS | Bethesda, MD

Monica M. Bertagnolli, MD, FACS, is a surgeon-scientist specializing in cancer and the first woman to lead the National Cancer Institute (NCI). In May 2023, US President Joseph Biden nominated her to lead the National Institutes of Health (NIH) in Bethesda, Maryland.

A graduate of the University of Utah School of Medicine in Salt Lake City, she completed her surgical residency at the Brigham and Women's Hospital (BWH) in Boston, Massachusetts. Concurrently, she completed 3 years of tumor immunology research at the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute.

Following her residency, she became an assistant professor of surgery at New York-Presbyterian Hospital-Cornell University Medical College in New York City and received her first NIH cancer research grant. On returning to Harvard Medical School and BWH as an associate professor of surgery 5 years later, she secured further NIH awards for cancer research. She has maintained this funding stream, plus other research funding, for 25 years. In 2007, she became the first female chief of surgical oncology at BWH. In 2015, she became the Harvard Medical School Richard E. Wilson Professor of Surgery in the Field of Surgical Oncology.

Dr. Bertagnolli's research has shown that truncation of the APC tumor suppressor protein causes a dominant negative effect on intestinal epithelium, NSAID use blocks tumor formation and cyclooxygenase-2 activity, and daily celecoxib use lowers the risk of precancerous colorectal polyps returning. She also helped lead and improve clinical trial protocols via the Cooperative Groups Program (now the NCI's National Clinical Trials Network). As a member of the Gastrointestinal Cancer and Sarcoma Disease Centers at BWH/Dana Farber Cancer Center, Dr. Bertagnolli is known for skillful and effective operations, including on many tumors deemed inoperable.

Over her career, she has written 191 academic research articles and 14 book chapters, advised 38 research fellows, early career researchers, and junior faculty members, and completed many named lectureships and visiting professorships. She also has been a member of the board of directors of the National Cancer Society, president of the American Society of Clinical Oncology, and member of the National Academy of Medicine.

Her work has upheld the rigor incumbent on scientists and surgeons and curiosity, innovation, and hope that improve human lives.

DR. MARY EDWARDS WALKER INSPIRING WOMEN IN SURGERY AWARD

This award was established by the ACS Women in Surgery Committee and is presented annually at Clinical Congress in recognition of an individual's significant contributions to the advancement of women in the field of surgery. The award is named after Mary Edwards Walker, MD, the first female surgeon employed by the US Army, the only female recipient of the Congressional Medal of Honor, and a tireless crusader for women's rights. This year's recipient is Sujana S. Chandrasekhar, MD, FACS.

Sujana S. Chandrasekhar, MD, FACS | New York, NY

Otologist-neurotologist Sujana S. Chandrasekhar, MD, FACS, is renowned as a leader and advocate for women and members of groups underrepresented in medicine (URiM). Dr. Chandrasekhar is president of the American Otological Society and former president of the American Academy of Otolaryngology-Head and Neck Surgery (AAO-HNS) and its Foundation. She is immediate past vice president of the Eastern Section of the Triological Society and chair of its Combined Sections Program.

She is a partner at ENT and Allergy Associates, director of neurotology at the James J. Peters Veterans Affairs Medical Center, clinical professor of otolaryngology at Zucker School of Medicine at Hofstra-Northwell, and clinical associate professor at the Icahn School of Medicine at Mount Sinai—all in the New York metropolitan area—as well as a teaching faculty member of five otolaryngology residency programs.

Dr. Chandrasekhar has advocated for inclusion of URiM women and minority groups, including as speakers, moderators, and panelists. As a result of her speaking up at a 2017 American Neurotology Society (ANS) conference, the ANS, American Otological Society, and sister societies changed bylaws to prevent panel sessions featuring only men. She successfully advocated for all panel submissions to the AAO-HNS Annual Meeting to document the presence of a woman or URiM physician, drastically improving meeting diversity.

Dr. Chandrasekhar spearheaded the creation of the Women in Otolaryngology (WIO) Section of the AAO-HNS and Foundation and ensured a permanent WIO seat on the AAO-HNS Finance and Investment Subcommittee and Board of Directors. This has resulted in more than $150,000 in grants disbursed to projects focused on women in otolaryngology. As the consulting editor for Otolaryngologic Clinics of North America, she has made women 50% of all guest editors and added many URiM physicians in the same role, while increasing reach and impact.

Dr. Chandrasekhar obtained her 6-year BS-MD from City University of New York (now CUNY Med) and Mount Sinai School of Medicine. She served as an intern, resident, and chief resident in general surgery and otolaryngology-head and neck surgery at New York University Medical Center and completed a fellowship in otology/neurotology at the House Ear Clinic and Institute in Los Angeles, California. She has received many awards and has been a visiting professor or keynote speaker on 25 occasions, and published 112 peer-reviewed articles.

DISTINGUISHED LIFETIME MILITARY CONTRIBUTION AWARD

The Distinguished Lifetime Military Contribution Award was established by the Board of Regents Honors Committee in 2018 to recognize a physician's distinguished contributions to the advancement of military surgery. Each recipient of this award must be a physician with a demonstrated commitment to the advancement of military surgical care but is not required to be in an active medical practice. The Board of Regents is honored to recognize the countless contributions of Jonathan Woodson, MD, MSS, FACS.

Jonathan Woodson, MD, MSS, FACS | Bethesda, MD

For his work advancing military surgery, Maj. Gen. (ret.) Jonathan Woodson, MD, MSS, FACS, is the recipient of the Distinguished Lifetime Military Contribution Award.

Dr. Woodson is president of the Uniformed Services University of the Health Sciences, where he leads the F. Edward Hébert School of Medicine and graduate programs in nursing, dentistry, and allied health. Before assuming this role in 2022, Dr. Woodson joined the Uniformed Services University Board of Regents (2016) and served as its chair (2019-2021).

Dr. Woodson joined the military in 1986 and was deployed to Saudi Arabia, Kosovo, Afghanistan, and Iraq. He is a former senior medical officer with the National Disaster Management System and responded to the September 11, 2001, terrorist attack in this role. Additionally, he received the Bronze Star and several Meritorious Service Medals.

In 2010, President Obama appointed Dr. Woodson assistant secretary of defense for health affairs and director of tricare management activity in the US Department of Defense, a role he held until 2016. Dr. Woodson retired as a major general of the US Army Reserve and commander of the US Army Reserve Medical Command of Pinellas Park, Florida, in 2022.

Dr. Woodson also maintained a civilian career, including serving as the Lars Anderson Professor in Management and professor of practice at Boston University's Questrom School of Business, with joint appointments as professor of surgery at the School of Medicine and professor of Health Law, Policy, and Management at the School of Public Health. He established the Boston University Institute for Health System Innovation and Policy. Before 2010, Dr. Woodson was a professor of surgery and associate dean for students, diversity, and multicultural affairs and a senior attending vascular surgeon at Boston Medical Center in Massachusetts.

Dr. Woodson received his medical degree from New York University and postgraduate education at Massachusetts General Hospital and Harvard Medical School in internal medicine and general and vascular surgery. He completed fellowships in general, vascular, and critical care surgery at Waltham/Weston Hospital & Medical Center in Waltham, Massachusetts, and Massachusetts General Hospital, plus a fellowship at the Health Services Research Institute of the Association of American Medical Colleges in Washington, DC. He later earned a master's degree in strategic studies from the US Army War College.

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE AWARD

The Distinguished Service Award—the highest honor and award bestowed annually by the American College of Surgeons—was established by the Board of Regents in 1957. The award is in recognition of exceptional and continuous service as an ACS Fellow, as well as a career distinguished by devotion to patient care and the principles and ideals that guide all surgeons in their professional practice. The Board of Regents is pleased to recognize the outstanding contributions of Ronald M. Stewart MD, FACS.

Ronald M. Stewart, MD, FACS | San Antonio, TX

This year's Distinguished Service Award recipient, Dr. Ronald Stewart, has been an exceptional Fellow of the ACS. Among his contributions are 27 years of service on the ACS Committee on Trauma (COT), serving as Vice-Chair of his state COT, then State Chair, Region Chief in the Regional COT, COT Central Committee member, and COT Chair. He has been the medical director for ACS Trauma Programs and a member of the ACS Board of Governors. His contributions have included spearheading the national launch of STOP THE BLEED®, assembling a Firearms Strategy Team, and testifying before US Congress on the need to treat firearm injury as a critical public health issue.

Dr. Stewart earned a medical degree and completed residency at The University of Texas Health Science Center at San Antonio. After fellowships in trauma and surgical critical care at the University of Tennessee Health Science Center in Memphis, he returned to The University of Texas Health Science Center at San Antonio, where he has served for 30 years.

Dr. Stewart helped develop the Southwest Texas Regional Advisory Council (STRAC), which has advanced trauma system development and disaster preparedness in the San Antonio region. STRAC serves as a regional medical operations center in times of disaster and stands as a model for the nation. In recognition of his service, Dr. Stewart was given the STRAC Visionary Leadership Award in 2018. Among his many other accolades are a 2019 Society of Trauma Nurses Distinguished Lectureship Award, 2017 National Safety Council Surgeon's Award, and 2017 Arthur Ellenberger Award for Excellence in State Advocacy from the ACS.

Dr. Stewart is a prolific researcher in trauma care, critical care, injury prevention, and other topics, with more than 150 peer-reviewed articles and 13 book chapters to his name. He has presented nearly 300 lectures on firearm injury prevention, trauma care, STOP THE BLEED®, and more. Among these is his Scudder Oration on Trauma, which he delivered at Clinical Congress in 2022, on the COT's 100th anniversary.

Dr. Stewart has been tireless as an instructor, mentor, and colleague, encouraging many with his "7 Ps to B": "Be participatory, professional, a problem solver, a process improvement leader, passionate, patient, and perseverant." He is all of these, and for this reason, he is the recipient of the American College of Surgeons' highest annual honor.

OUTGOING PRESIDENT (2022–2023)

E. Christopher Ellison, MD, FACS, the 103rd president of the ACS, is a highly regarded surgeon and surgeon-educator from Columbus, Ohio.

Dr. Ellison is the Robert M. Zollinger Professor of Surgery Emeritus at The Ohio State University (OSU) College of Medicine. The son of a surgeon, Dr. Ellison chose surgery as a career path early in life. After earning his medical degree from the Medical College of Wisconsin (MCW) in Milwaukee, he moved to Ohio, where he has remained for much of his career. After completing a general surgery residency at OSU from 1977 to 1983, he was hired as an assistant professor in 1984. Over time, he has served OSU as the chief of the Division of General Surgery, director of the General Surgery Residency Program, chair of the Department of Surgery, and Robert M. Zollinger Professor of Surgery. In addition, he served as an interim dean of the OSU College of Medicine and as founder, past president, and past-chief executive officer of the OSU Physicians Practice Plan.

Under various phases of his leadership, the OSU Department of Surgery expanded to include a multidisciplinary basic science and clinical research program, reinstated the Master of Medical Science program, and advanced diversity and inclusion, helping to make the college a leading institution for opportunities for underrepresented minority students in medical education. As a result, he has been honored with Distinguished Professor recognition in 2015 and the OSU Distinguished Service Award in 2020. In addition to his accolades at OSU, he has received membership in the Alpha Omega Alpha Honor Society while a student at MCW and the MCW Distinguished Alumni Service Award in 2021.

Dr. Ellison became an ACS Fellow in 1986 and, in addition to his presidency, has held many positions, including Ohio Chapter President (1997), where he helped establish a state trauma system; ACS Governor (1998–2003); ACS Representative to the American Board of Surgery (2003); Chair of the ACS Advisory Council for General Surgery (2013–2015); Chair of the ACS Advisory Council for Surgical Specialties (2013–2015); and Foundation Board Chair (2019–2021). He serves on the Committee on Opportunities for Senior Surgeons (2018–present), on the Mastery of Surgery Committee (2013–present), and as a member of the ACS Academy of Master Surgeon Educators. In the past, he served on the Committee on Young Surgeons (1992–1995) and Committee on Video-Based Education (2003–2009).

Dr. Ellison has also been president of the American Surgical Association, Central Surgical Association, Society of Surgical Chairs, and James IV Association of Surgeons. He is a past chair of the American Board of Surgery and served as a member of the American Board of Colon and Rectal Surgery. He is a member of the Association for Academic Surgery, Society of University Surgeons, Society for Surgery of the Alimentary Tract, American Hepato-Pancreato-Biliary Association, and Society of Laparoscopic Surgeons and has served as vice president of the American Association of Endocrine Surgeons.

Dr. Ellison has contributed to medical literature by writing more than 160 peer-reviewed articles; editing the 9th, 10th, and 11th editions of Zollinger's Atlas of Surgical Operations, and Fischer's Mastery of Surgery, 8th edition; coauthoring The Coming Shortage of Surgeons; and serving on the editorial boards of the American Journal of Surgery and Journal of American College of Surgeons. He also completed a 2-year term as the George W. Paulson, MD, Medical Heritage Center Scholar-in-Residence and co-authored a book on the history of the Ohio State University Department of Surgery.

Throughout his career, his clinical interests have included pancreatic cancer, gallbladder disease, and Zollinger-Ellison syndrome, which is named after his father, surgeon Edwin H. Ellison, MD, FACS. He is considered an authority on surgical workforce issues and remains dedicated to surgical education and coaching surgical residents.

Henri R. Ford, MD, MHA, FACS, FRCS, FAAP, is the dean and chief academic officer of the University of Miami Miller School of Medicine. Since joining the Miller School in 2018, Dr. Ford has focused on developing the next generation of transformational leaders who will shape the future of medicine. Under Dr. Ford's leadership, the Miller School has increased its research funding from the National Institutes of Health from $128 million in 2018 to more than $175 million in 2022. The Blue Ridge Institute for Medical Research ranked the Miller School 38th in the nation and No. 1 in Florida for these federal research grants. In addition, US News & World Report cites the Miller School as one of the most diverse in the nation.

Born in Port-au-Prince, Haiti, Dr. Ford moved with his family to Brooklyn, New York, at the age of 13 years. He excelled in high school and received a full scholarship to Princeton University, where his interest in medicine burgeoned. He graduated cum laude from Princeton in 1980 with a bachelor of arts degree in public and international affairs, then earned his medical degree from Harvard Medical School. Dr. Ford completed his surgical internship and residency at New York Hospital-Weill Cornell Medical College and—inspired to pursue a career in academic surgery—he also completed a research fellowship in immunology at the University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine and a clinical fellowship in pediatric surgery at the Children's Hospital of Pittsburgh.

Following this training, he became the Benjamin R. Fisher Chair in Pediatric Surgery at the University of Pittsburgh and surgeon-in-chief at Children's Hospital of Pittsburgh. In 2005, he was appointed vice president and chief of surgery at Children's Hospital Los Angeles in California and professor of surgery at the University of Southern California (USC) Keck School of Medicine. He was later promoted to vice dean of medical education at Keck. During this time, Dr. Ford also received a master of health administration degree from USC.

Dr. Ford is an internationally recognized authority on necrotizing enterocolitis, a lethal disease that causes inflammation of intestinal tissue in premature infants. He is the author of more than 300 peer-reviewed articles, book chapters, invited articles, abstracts and presentations. He has a strong reputation for mentoring physicians and physician-scientists, and he regularly returns to Haiti to teach, lead operating teams, and assist in developing surgical systems. In 2015, he performed the first successful separation of conjoined twins in Haiti alongside surgeons he helped train.

In 2022, Dr. Ford was elected to the prestigious National Academy of Medicine—an honor that reflects his remarkable professional achievements and commitment to service in health and medicine. In addition, Dr. Ford chairs the Council of Deans of the Association of American Medical Colleges (AAMC), leading 157 medical school deans in North America. He is also a recipient of the AAMC's Arnold P. Gold Foundation Humanism in Medicine Award. In 2021, Dr. Ford received the Arnold Salzberg Mentorship Award from the American Academy of Pediatrics and the Excellence in Education Award from the National Medical Fellowship.

Dr. Ford has been an ACS Fellow since 1996 and was on the ACS Board of Regents from 2012 to 2021. He also served as a liaison for the ACS Advisory Council for Pediatric Surgery, was a member and Chair of the ACS Ethics Committee and is a Past-Chair of the Nominating Committee and Past-Vice-Chair of the ACS Board of Governors. In addition, he was the 2022 recipient of the ACS Owen H. Wangenstein Scientific Forum Award. He currently serves as Vice-Chair of ACS H.O.P.E. (formerly Operation Giving Back), the college's surgical volunteerism initiative that serves the US as well as countries in sub-Saharan Africa.

His other notable positions include serving on the Board of Trustees of Princeton University and the Board of Directors of the AAMC. In addition, he is past president of the Society of Black Academic Surgeons, and the first Black president of the Surgical Infection Society, the American Pediatric Surgical Association, and the Association for Academic Surgery, which established the Henri Ford Junior Faculty Research Award in his honor.

AMERICAN COLLEGE OF SURGEONS

FELLOWSHIP PLEDGE

Recognizing that the American College of Surgeons seeks to exemplify and develop the highest traditions of our ancient profession, I hereby pledge myself, as a condition of Fellowship in the College, to live in strict accordance with the College's principles and regulations.

I PLEDGE TO PURSUE the practice of surgery with honesty and to place the welfare and the rights of my patient above all else. I promise to deal with each patient as I would wish to be dealt with if I were in the patient's position, and I will respect the patient's autonomy and individuality.

I FURTHER PLEDGE TO AFFIRM and support the social contact of the surgical profession with my community and society.

I WILL TAKE NO PART in any arrangement or improper financial dealings that induce referral, treatment, or withholding of treatment for reasons other than the patient's welfare.

UPON MY HONOR, I declare that I will advance my knowledge and skills, will respect my colleagues, and will seek their counsel when in doubt about my own abilities. In turn, I will willingly help my colleagues when requested.

I RECOGNIZE THE INTERDEPENDENCY of all healthcare professionals and will treat each with respect and consideration.

Finally, by my Fellowship in the American College of Surgeons, I SOLEMNLY PLEDGE TO ABIDE by the Code of Professional Conduct and to cooperate in advancing the art and science of surgery.
