The President, 1973-74 American College of Surgeons

For Claude E. Welch, clinical professor of surgery emeritus at Harvard Medical School and senior consulting surgeon at Massachusetts General Hospital, medicine is, in his own words, "a totally absorbing way of life."

The 67-year-old surgeon, who worked in a drug store to put himself through college and once helped a veterinarian perform autopsies, could easily have found a career in the laboratory instead of in the operating room. The descendant of a pioneer family which settled in Nebraska and "grew up with the country," Dr. Welch was born in Stanton, a small rural town about 100 miles northwest of Omaha, where his father was a school superintendent. He graduated from Doane College, Crete, Nebraska, in 1927, and earned a Master's degree in chemistry from the University of Missouri a year later. Although he liked chemistry, he felt it lacked human interest. "I became attracted to medicine," he recalls, "because it is a combination of exciting intellectual pursuit and practical performance."

Dr. Welch graduated from Harvard Medical School in 1932, receiving his M. D. degree magna cum laude. He has since received honorary Doctor of Science degrees from Doane and from the University of Nebraska.

From 1932 to 1937, Dr. Welch was, successively, a surgical intern at Massachusetts General; a surgical resident at Pondville Cancer Hospital, Wrentham, Massachusetts; a surgical resident at Massachusetts General, and instructor in surgery at Harvard Medical School.

During World War II, he spent four years with the Army's 6th General Hospital as one of 45 doctors from Massachusetts General, serving in Casablanca, Rome, and Bologna, and rising to the rank of lieutenant colonel.

Today, Dr. Welch is associated with a group of surgeons at Massachusetts General, and has a full-time private practice. He was chief of the hospital's tumor clinic from 1957 to 1966.

Dr. Welch is a recognized authority in the field of abdominal surgery. He has organized post-graduate courses in gastrointestinal surgery and malignant disease that have attracted physicians from across the country, and has lectured extensively on these subjects both in the United States and abroad. A prolific author, he has written more than 200 scientific articles, chiefly on gastrointestinal disease and cancer, and three books: Surgery of the Stomach and Duodenum (1951), now in its fifth edition; Intestinal Obstruction (1955), and Polypoid Lesions of the Gastrointestinal Tract (1964). He has also been chairman of the Committee on Publications of The New England Journal of Medicine for the past five years.

Dr. Welch's participation in organized medicine has been as absorbing as his teaching and clinical activities. The American College of Surgeons is the seventh major medical organization he has served as president. He has held the presidencies of the Massachusetts Medical Society, the Society for Surgery of the Alimentary Tract, the New England Cancer Society, the Boston Surgical Society, the Excelsior Surgical Society, and the Harvard Medical Alumni Association.

The 54th President of the College was a Governor from 1960 to 1963, and a Regent from 1963 to 1972. He chaired the College's Program Committee from 1968 to 1972, and the Committee on Surgical Education in Medical Schools from 1967 to 1972. Dr. Welch is also a member of the AMA House of Delegates, a position he has held since 1967, and represents the College on the AMA Inter-specialty Council.

For recreation, Dr. Welch likes to play golf, paint, or play the piano. He and his wife Phyllis, whom he met while she was a nurse at Massachusetts General, live in Belmont, a Boston suburb. For several years, Mrs. Welch was chairman of the Ladies Committee of the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston. She also served as the first president of the Middlesex South Medical Auxiliary.

Dr. and Mrs. Welch have two sons: John, a resident in surgery at Massachusetts General Hospital, and Claude Jr., a professor of political economy at State University of New York at Buffalo.

Fellowship Pledge

Recognizing that the American College of Surgeons seeks to exemplify and develop the highest traditions of our profession, I hereby pledge myself, as a condition of Fellowship in the College, to live in strict accordance with all its principles and regulations.

I pledge myself to pursue the practice of surgery with scientific honesty and to place the welfare of my patients above all else; to advance constantly in knowledge; and to render willing help to my colleagues, regard their professional interest, and seek their counsel when in doubt as to my own judgment.

Upon my honor I hereby declare that I will not practice the division of fees, either directly or indirectly. I further promise to make my fees commensurate with the services rendered and with the patient's rights. Moreover, I promise to deal with each patient as I would wish to be dealt with were I in his position.

Finally, I pledge myself to cooperate in advancing and extending the ideals and principles of the American College of Surgeons.
